

The HeArt of the City

Bonnie Eisenfeld

Sally Eisenberg's work on display in her studio at 1241 Carpenter Studios on Saturday, October 12, during Philadelphia Open Studio Tours. Eisenberg says works in this exhibition are "mixed media abstracts inspired by food and the world around me." <https://www.sallykeisenbergartist.com/> The building houses four floors of artists' studios. <http://www.1241carpenter.com/>

Bonnie Eisenfeld

Center City artist Susan Howard in her studio at 915 Spring Garden on Sunday, October 13, during Philadelphia Open Studio Tours. Howard's oil paintings are intricate, colorful, and fanciful depictions of imaginary creatures. This renovated building houses two floors of artists' studios. <https://www.915springgarden.com/>

Bonnie Eisenfeld

"Windsor Flower Chair II" by Annie Evelyn at the Center for Art in Wood, 3rd and Cherry Sts.

Bonnie Eisenfeld

"Yumi Flower Chair II" by Laura Kishimoto at the Center for Art in Wood, 3rd and Cherry Sts. Their current exhibit is "Making a Seat at the Table: Women Transform Woodworking."

Bonnie Eisenfeld

"Purses" by Michaela Cristone at the Center for Art in Wood, 3rd and Cherry Sts.

Bonnie Eisenfeld

Pennsylvania Guild Fine Craft Fair. Martin Moon at work during the October weekend fair in Rittenhouse Square. Moon is a Pennsylvania-based metal artist who creates decorated functionalware and jewelry, primarily in copper and silver. Martin studied in Turkey, where he learned traditional Turkish coppersmithing. <http://www.moonmetalsmithing.com/>

Courtesy Naudain Art Collaborative

"Naudain Lake and Flowers #12" by Sarah Hicks. The Naudain Art Collaborative presented works by 12 artists from our neighborhood, winners of the First Juried Community Show on November 2 and 3. A group show with small works was planned for December 7 and 8.

Courtesy Naudain Art Collaborative

"Three Graces" by Eric Mencher Photography. The Naudain Art Collaborative presented works by 12 artists from our neighborhood.